Version 1.1: - it now works in notepad, you need to add a reference to the current assembly, found the reference, right click select 'add reference' and select it from the 'Assemblies' tab. This is in the winform project, not the app. - Changed the copy paste, and the flip buttons to work on multi lines of text. - Added a line that says 'sorry for the bad English, it seems someone used English as a second language when typing this text for me, please notify me at: patrick.guy@gmail.com if it is incorrect or too bad to say' So that I can improve the program or tell that person to improve their English, and to apologize to me. You also get a credit in the program. - Enabled the buttons by default, so they will work without having to change anything in the code. - Made the copy and paste buttons auto do their function - made the flip button work on multi lines of text and an underline on the text box for a better look - Made the Notepad allow me to put more than 4 lines of text in it. - Added a button that reverses the flipped text. - Opened the Notepad to see the final code before it gets sent. - Changed the font for the text box so it is more clearly seen, added a unicode symbol for the "flip" button. So this program is a small app that allows you to flip text you have in a notepad or other program. The original program was written by me and I had no idea what I was doing, and I wasn't able to write my own program in Visual Basic. It took about two weeks.

After that I got to thinking that this could be made into a small forum game, like Simon says or whatnot. So I rewrote it in Visual Basic and made it add stuff like the English the person who copy and pasted it wrote, a 'flip' button, search and replace, and a reverse button. I have no idea what my English is, sorry for the quality of it. You need a font for it to look good. The Lucinda Sans unicode is the one I added, you can find it on google. That font has a unicode for Flip and no underline, it should look good in other programs if you add the reference to the current assembly as I described. FlipMyText Cracked Accounts Version for the download. . This software (FlipMyText.exe) is created by Aarthi K.Q: Cannot resolve symbol 'BillingDetailsActivity' I created a project in which I can add items to purchase using CashAch. I got my code from CashAch's sample which runs smoothly. When I switched to Android Pay, I got errors like: Could not find class 'com.amazon.inapp.billing.android.BillingDetailsActivity' in com.amazon.inapp.billing.AndroidPayActivity (Conflict resolution failed) I have created new project to test the functionality and I was able to successfully add a purchase. I think the problem is that when I switched to Android Pay, the code was not able to migrate from old sample to new sample because when I debug the code on the new project, the variable name is different. Can someone suggest what is the difference in the project between the old and new project and how can I make them to look alike? A
